Behold

I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people
For unto you is born this day
in the city of David, a Son
which is Christ the Lord.
St Luke 2:10, 11

Whispering Cedars
bids you

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year

As this Christmas approaches may we, as the shepherds of old, have the power to see God as we go about the ordinary tasks of living. May we have their faith as they followed their shining star to Him.

As the wise men knew the thrill of searching, of overcoming obstacles and difficulties, and of discovering life's highest and best, may we too share in this knowledge.

As God himself recognized that in humble and lowly people his Son would be most at home, may we know that Jesus is one of us.

May we realize as never before the beauty, the simplicity, the challenge of the Christmas story.

Secret Pal Party

The Y.W.C.A. held its annual Christmas party at the home of Mrs. C. W. Steele on Wednesday evening of this week. The house, under the direction of Betty Tobias, had been decorated in blue-berried cedar, candles, holly, and Christmas trees. A committee headed by Jane Frame planned the entertainment. The Burns' House and the Barnharts gave special features. Miss Basore explained how Santa Clause is expected to navigate the modern chimneys. The committee had worked out a list of questions to be answered by names of the girls present. The girls sang Christmas carols and rounds while refreshments, consisting of veal salad, wafers, cocoa, and candy canes, were being prepared under the direction of Betty Fisher.

After refreshments were served, the presents were opened, and the girls discovered the identity of their Secret Pals. To show their appreciation of the interest which Mrs. Steele has taken in the welfare of the Y.W., the girls presented her with a Christmas poinsetta.

The Mixed Chorus, Girls' Glee Club and Couble Quartette presented a one hour program, under the direction of Miss Bickott, at Waynesville on Thursday afternoon. The program consisted entirely of sacred music, mostly Christmas songs. Professor Steele spoke for a short time inviting the students to visit Cedarville College.

Christmas Meeting

"Have I Forgotten Something?" was the theme of Rev. Semester's talk in the joint Y.N. & Y.W.C.A. meeting Wednesday morning. His theme centered on Christmas as "Xmas". He challenged youth to find the unknown quantity.

The scripture was read by Esther Laddie, the prayer by Justin Hartman, and special musical number was sung by Betty Tobias.

Pop Meeting

Monday night a great group of willing collectors was seen parading the streets behind a large banner with black letters which read "BLIT BLUFFTON". The journey finally wound up, after much shouting and singing, at the college. There a bonfire was brightly burning waiting for a group to surround it.

Old John Bluffton, a ragged, torn, and disgraced old fellow was cast upon the fire before the very eyes of the crowd. Rev. John F. Richards conducted the funeral services for old John Bluffton before the burning occurred. Talks were given by different members of the student body. Coach and Mrs. Ault spoke some fine words near the end of the ceremony and urged all students to support the team.

This pop meeting probably had some effect on the fine spirit shown by the students at the game Tuesday.

BASKETBALL

The ones of you who missed the game Tuesday night missed one of the finest displays of a hard fighting team that was out to win and a hard cheering crowd that was out to see them win that we have seen for a long time. From the start of the game the team fought as a well-knit unit, never stopping their savage drive to victory. The crowd seemed to sense the feeling of victory and so held a big snake dance at the half. This display of spirit seemed to give the boys pep to play as good a game the second half as they did the first. The crowd literally went wild when the score became 40-39 with only two minutes left to play. A swishing bucket by Thomas placed the score at 42-39, and Bluffton's threat was stilled.

As Bluffton was cast down into the fiery coals Monday night, so was she sent back home by the college five Tuesday night while the crowd paraded all over town praising the team of Old C. C.

Failed! Failed! Failed!!!

For the forty-eleventh time the boys met their Waterloo while storming the Barnhart Fortress. The first major casualty was a narrow escape from accidental death by drowning. Mrs. Barnhart bravely saved their lives by ushering them ceremoniously from the portals to safety.

The night of Committal a prominent senior was seen frantically seeking refuge on the Barnhart roof whither he had been pursued by the loyal contingent.

Ingenuity, a quality commonly attributed to the Gillespie brothers, marked the third drive on the Barnhart Gibraltar. To their extreme dissatisfaction, the atavistic invaders were definitely rebuffed in their vociferous efforts to wreak havoc in the orderly domain.

We, thinking it for the good of the College, suggest that these very animated atabists be corralled and given training in some of the gently arts, such as crocheting or knitting. (Do you remember what a soothing effect knitting had upon some of our members last year?)

We recommend that these incorrigible gamins consult an eminent phrenologist for the exact status of their characters.

Do they feel futile!!!

Wednesday Night Scenes

Roy Linton talking to Mr. Burns.

It's getting pretty bad when boys turn on themselves.

Does Richards still have Betty Allison's hat on exhibit at the store?

Why! Why! John Richards!

What are you doing here?

WE LIKE--

The wonderful school spirit shown at the game Tuesday.

Our boys' beating Bluffton.

Dear Santa:

I want a crown.

Betty Fisher

I wonder if it would be possible for you to bring down some Republicans from the North Pole to replenish Greene County's supply.

Dr. Mac.

Would it be possible to get an "S" for my name.

Dot A.

Bring me a temper-controller

Marthana

Some Avon powder and a new set of tires, please.

Cecil T.

I want a lot, of course.

Elinor H.

A private detective to find out what Nick's going to give me for Christmas.

Virginia T.

A box of perfume--it's urgent.

Walker & Jackson

I'd like some more hours for my night life.

Miss Basore

A pair of field glasses will suffice.

B. Tindall

I believe a parachute would be helpful.

Ray Sisson

How about some iodine?

H. Wallace

I should be happy if you could drop into my stocking an "A" for Survey.

Fred Lott

A doll named Virginia that can probably be found at Otterbein.

J. Gillespie

Will you please bring me a new thimble?

E. Foulk

Please, Santa, just another set of keys for our car.

The Aults

Bring me a kiddie car and bring me a scooter.

R. Stebbins

I want muzalo for Lulu.

Irene Allison

* * *

Was Angus Murray afraid he was going to get hit Sunday evening or didn't he want us to see who of the Burn's girls he was with?

We don't believe Geneva and Benny liked our serenade----we'll try again.

John R. has been awfully blue this week. Somebody's predictions look as if they're coming to pass.

The boys did very well hiding the girls' cars at the Secret Pal Party, Congratulations, boys.

Lost!! Strayed!! or Stolen??
As yet we don't know which it was, but nevertheless where was Angell's car found and at what hour Wednesday morning? For particulars inquire at the Barnhart Homestead.

Grimes Golden is starting a class on "How to Catch Your Man." Williams is the first pupil enrolled.

A little girl from London would like to have a date with a handsome fellow from Jamestown.

It's too bad that there aren't enough nights in the week for the dates that Betty Tobias could have.

I feel futile

Like Emily without her Benny

Like Geneva without her Benny

Like the reading class without its Emma.

I feel futile.

Who forgot what when they went to Otterbein?

Justin's at least trying to get that date. Although he did lose his nerve at the last minute.
